British Commons Hears Statement on MacDonald-Mussolini Conference

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, March 23.—Premier MacDonald to-day partially lifted the veil over the Rome conversations he had with Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy last week on disarmament and European peace.

The Mussolini plan, the Premier told the Commons, essentially provided for collaboration between the four great powers which were permanent members of the League of Nations, and that the proposed collaboration should be carried out within the framework of the League with ten years indicated as the first period for the proposed treaty.

The essence of the plan was maintenance of peace in the spirit of the Kellogg Pact, with the declaration that no power should resort to force in an effort to solve political difficulties. Linked with the maintenance of peace was the question of revision of treaties. Premier Mussolini's view was that while the covenant of the League enforced respect for treaty obligations, it also contemplated possibility of revision when conditions arose that might lead to conflict.

NOT ETERNAL
"Every treaty," Premier MacDonald observed to the House, "is holy, but no treaty is eternal."

"Some of the suggestions made to us," Mr. MacDonald continued, "quite plainly could not be accepted as they were. But in conversation we found they were largely verbal differences, and by a slight redrafting Mr. Mussolini's opinion and ours might coincide. We promised to study the plan," declared the Prime Minister.

"The British government held as essential to the plan that the smaller states should be consulted wherever their special interests were concerned. The smaller states must not be excluded from playing their appropriate part," he added.

"The question how the smaller states could be consulted was one of the points requiring close attention," he continued. "They have a right to be consulted whenever their special interests are concerned, and that will be done."

Sick Mother Wins Fight For Pension

Judge Orders Restoration of Monthly Payments Stopped When She Entered Hospital

Clearhuh Reveals How Child Was Left Destitute, To Be Cared for by Saanich

Hilda Wardman, widow, of Saanich, with Joseph R. Clearhuh as her counsel, to-day won her legal fight against William Manson, provincial superintendent of welfare, when Chief Justice Morrison of the Supreme Court handed down a ruling ordering the restoration of the monthly mother's pension payment, which Mr. Manson's pension board had cut off when Mrs. Wardman entered hospital, although her young child was left without any support or care.

At the request of the Chief Justice, R. F. Sewell, municipal clerk of Saanich, entered the witness box to-day and testified that the effect of Mr. Manson's action in withdrawing support from the child as well as the mother, was to put the responsibility of caring for the destitute child upon the municipality.

Old Imperial Flag Returns to Germany

With Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his supporters setting out on what they hope will be at least four years of dictatorship, the above picture, received by The Times to-day, gives an impression of flag incidents now being witnessed throughout Germany. Recently the red, black and white ensign of the former empire was declared the official flag of Germany, the flag of the republic being abandoned. Under the same order the swastika flag of the Nazis is being flown on public buildings side by side with the revived imperial flag. When the photo was taken Hitler was jumping off a truck with empire flags to be hoisted over the Berlin city hall.

PRAIRIE SCRIP ISSUES BRING COURT TEST

THIEF PROMISES TO RETURN SOON

Vancouver, March 23.—"Too bad it wouldn't work, but I will try another time," says a note found this morning beside a badly-damaged safe in the premises of the Burrard Iron Works Ltd.

The disappointed criminal apparently tried hard for the safe, handle and hinges were chiseled off with tools from the firm's workshop. He was unable to break into the safe, however, and it was some time before company employees could pry open the damaged door. A preliminary survey indicated nothing had been taken.

WORK SOON ON VANCOUVER BRIDGE

Vancouver, March 23.—Satisfaction was voiced to-day by the Vancouver Board of Harbor Commissioners when notice appeared from Ottawa that tenders would be called immediately for reconstruction of the Second Narrows Bridge.

The official call for tenders was issued to-day by Messrs. Pratt & Key, Montreal, supervising engineers for the work. They must be in by 12 noon on April 18. This first call is for construction of concrete work on the bridge.

Broker Declares Local Money Plans Illegal Under Federal Bank Act and Asks $400 From Town of Magrath

Calgary, March 23.—The Alberta town of Magrath was made defendant to-day in an action started in court here by Robert Lewis Raymond, describing himself as a broker, who seeks to obtain $400 from Magrath which he charges issued scrip illegally.

Norman Dingle, K.C., acting as counsel for Mr. Raymond, said Magrath would be served with notice of the action to-morrow. It was intended also to start similar proceedings against the town of Raymond, which also issued scrip.

Acting as informant, Mr. Raymond charges scrip is illegal under the Bank Act, which carries a $400 fine for anyone issuing paper to take the place of legal currency. His notice of action states he is acting for himself and "on behalf of the public of Canada and His Majesty the King."

The towns of Raymond and Magrath during the winter issued scrip to pay town employees as an effort to prevent further bank borrowings and carry on during financial stringency. The scrip was used to purchase goods and was redeemable in taxes and services rendered to the towns.

TOWER INMATE MAKES DENIAL

Lieut. Baillie-Stewart, on Trial in London, Swears He Did Not Betray Country

Canadian Press
London, March 23.—Lieutenant Norman Baillie-Stewart of the Seaforth Highlanders denied on the witness stand to-day he ever had disclosed to a foreign agent any information prejudicial to his country.

The young officer, on trial before a court-martial, is accused of betraying military secrets for pay. The money he received, he contends, was sent him by a German girl who he had met in Berlin.

"On my honor," he said to-day, "I never have attempted to obtain, I never have obtained, and I never have disclosed any information prejudicial to the state. There is no possible reason why I should have done so. I never have been in debt in my life."

He explained that memoranda on army matters such as tanks and armored cars, which the prosecution contended he had noted down in connection with his alleged betrayal of secrets, were in fact notes he had made because of his constant interest in matters connected with the mechanization of the army. His brother, also an army officer, was much against army mechanization, he said, and they often argued on the subject.

SNOW LIZARD APPEARS IN B.C.

Placer Miners Said to Have Seen Strange Animal, Left-over From Past Ages

Reports from the interior of the discovery by placer miners of a snow lizard caused much interest here among naturalists, who recalled the discovery a few years ago of a young hippo on the Pullen concession in the Highland district just outside of Victoria.

The two animals are members of the same species, now practically extinct in this climatic zone, it was explained. It is thought they are diminutive descendants of giant dinosaurs which roamed this area and were finally driven off by the advance of the glaciers down from the north to form the ice age. As this advance was slow, some animal forms, research has revealed, were able to adapt themselves to the changing conditions. They continued to live on and a few of their descendants because of a superior intelligence "greater adaptability" have been able to continue their existence in isolated spots where they are free from enemies.

Efforts are being made at the request of the authorities to capture the snow lizard, to be placed in the Vancouver or Victoria park zoos if caught alive, and to be preserved in the Provincial Museum at Victoria when dead.

Pearson Fights for Social Legislation

Aggressive Attitude of Government Members to Service Under Fire

Budget Criticized for Shifting Responsibilities to Cities

The attitude of a number of government members towards social legislation was pungently scored and lack of action on unemployment and state health insurance was regretted by George S. Pearson, Liberal, Nanaimo, during the budget debate in the Legislature yesterday. Mounting debts and deficits were dealt with and the budget was criticized for evasion of responsibilities by shifting further burdens on municipalities.

Cities Get No Encouragement

Finance Minister Tells of Own Problems When They Seek Relief

Delegates representing the Union of British Columbia Municipalities made no headway this morning in their representations for some relief from the burden imposed upon them by an additional share of social services costs and the elimination of part-municipal and liquor profit grants.

Following the meeting of the executive of the union in Vancouver last Saturday after the latest grant cuts were made known, representatives of the union sought an interview with Premier Tolmie this morning. In the absence of Premier Tolmie through sickness they saw Hon. J. W. Jones, Finance Minister.

The resolution passed at the Vancouver meeting intimating that unless some of the grants were restored the union would recommend to its members the full responsibility for unemployment relief be placed on the government, was presented.

No hope was held out for the municipalities by Mr. Jones, delegates reported. He expressed a picture of the difficulties he was confronted with himself and gave no intimation that he could comply with the request of the union executive.

Mr. Jones, it is understood, disagreed with the serious view taken by the municipal delegates of the financial position of their municipalities. He would not recommend some alternate course by which municipal budgets could be balanced, but refused to commit himself further than that strict economy must be practiced.

BEER AND WATER

Milwaukee, Wis., March 23. (Associated Press).—Return of real beer will increase the Milwaukee water department's annual revenue by more than $50,000, according to Henry P. Bohmann, superintendent of water works. He said he believed the breweries would use 1,500,000 gallons of water a year.

Excitement Grows As U.S. Beer Day Comes

King and Queen To Visit Aldershot

Washington, March 23.—The United States government to-day moved swiftly to open the beer taps through which a legal 3.3 per cent brew will flow to the republic's thirsty after midnight, April 6.

Machinery to license brewers was set in motion by Dr. James M. Dorn, industrial alcohol commissioner, who pledged himself to keep bootleg racketeers out of the legalized industry.

Government officials acted a day after President Roosevelt had signed into law a bill which permits the sale of beer and wine of 3.3 per cent alcohol content. The President's action signalled the end of the absolute prohibition which has prevailed since 1920.

LOCAL GIRL GETS PRIZE

Enid McKee, Fairfield House, Draws Consolation Prize of $410 in Irish Sweepstake

Another Victorian shared to-day in the prize distribution of the Irish Free States hospitals sweepstake, when Enid McKee, Fairfield House, drew one of the consolation awards, worth $410. She was the only local resident to share in the consolation draw.

Peter Gregson, 453 Milton Street, Nanaimo, also drew a consolation prize. Gregson has been out of work for two years.

The following consolation prizes were won by Canadians, according to a dispatch received from Dublin: Enid McKee, Fairfield House, Victoria, B.C.; Peter Gregson, Nanaimo; James McLaren, Hastings Street E., Vancouver; George Fountain, National Institute for the Blind, Winnipeg; William Timlinson and Warren Herbert, Royal Trust Building, Vancouver; "Junior," 143 Moy Avenue, Windsor, Ont.; "Brago-vitch," Anyox, B.C.; B. Templeman and Mrs. McFerran, Royal Trust Company, Winnipeg; and Archibald Blackie, Port Garry, Man.

Civic Budget Is Cut By One Mill

Council Makes Bold Start in Effort to Prevent $211,000 Tax Increase

Car Allowances to be Probed; Radio Station Grant May Be Abolished

After slashing right and left for three hours yesterday evening, the City Council found itself approximately $25,000 nearer bridging the $211,000 gap which must be filled before the civic budget will balance on the 1933 tax rate.

Added to the $17,000 reduced from expenditure estimates Monday night, this makes about one mill which has been shaved from the threatened five-mill increase shown in the controller's draft budget.

Reorganization of the Provincial Government's $4,533 grant for the new fair buildings at the Willows, of which the sidewalkers were advised yesterday evening, helped considerably in the budget-balancing drive. Elimination of $11,000 in proposed expenditure on resurfacing streets with wood block paving was another substantial item.

"IN OLD CLOTHES"

Maintenance grants were slashed in several instances, and Mayor Leeming made the following comment at one stage:

"The city is going around in its old clothes and that's all it can continue to do in these times."

There were indications of further economies, briefly, as follows:

Alderman James Adam called for a complete report on allowances for all automobiles operated under the city's supervision, with costs per mile, make of car, and other details.

Proposals for wiping out a $105 a month grant to radio station CFTY, which were referred to a special council committee, which will reconsider the budget later.

PROSECUTION IS INVESTIGATED

Chancellor Promises Campaign of "Barbaric Severity" Against All Declared To Be Traitors

JOSEPH W. HARRIMAN

Washington, March 23.—The possibility developed to-day the United States senate banking committee might investigate the Justice Department's handling of the prosecution of Joseph W. Harriman, former president of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, charged with falsifying accounts.

Mr. Harriman, who is sixty-six years of age, was arrested recently as he lay ill at his home in New York. He denied the false entries charge against him in connection with his bank, alleged to have been made with intent to deceive the controller of the currency. He furnished $25,000 bail pending the hearing set for March 28.

Mr. Harriman founded the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company.

He relegated the issue of the monarchy to the background, lifted the destruction of communism to the fore of his programme, reiterated the familiar Nazi thesis of arms equality for all and promised a campaign of "barbaric severity" against all traitors.

Wave after wave of applause and cheers drowned his voice from time to time. The Nazis, who control the House, especially approved his dictum that once adjourned, the Reichstag would be recalled only from time to time "to be informed by the government of its acts when the assent of the Reichstag is desirable."

PUBLIC EXECUTION

The first big cheer came when he expressed his approval of "public decapitation" of the men who set fire to the Reichstag building just before the last election. There was tumultuous applause also at his announcement of a campaign of "barbaric severity against all guilty of treason."

"No gigantic revolution of similar dimensions ever has been carried out with such unflinching discipline and so little bloodshed as our revolution," he cried, and the Nazis cheered again.

DENOUNCES REPUBLIC

He condemned as "an unexampled crime" the 1918 revolution which gave birth to the German Republic, now virtually destined to make way for the new regime.

GALLERIES CROWDED

The visitors' galleries were packed during to-day's sitting. Outside in the streets for blocks around the Kroll Opera House enormous meetings of the parliament, soldiers and police were on guard. Everyone who entered the meeting hall was searched for weapons.

NOT DISCUSSING IT

"Restoration of the monarchy is at present not to be discussed, so long as conditions prevail which necessitate the National Government's focusing its attention solely on saving the German people, especially millions of workers, from indescribable misery," said the Chancellor.

"The world can recover economically only if it is relieved of reparations and the impossible debts and interest obligations," he said. "The debt must be adjusted to the changed conditions of the world."

FOR FUTURE CONSIDERATION

Berlin, March 23.—Restoration of the German monarchy, which does not demand immediate attention, Chancellor Hitler said to-day.

Vancouver Hospital Faces Big Deficit

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 23.—Action of the provincial government in reducing its grant to the Vancouver General Hospital by an amount estimated at $75,000 will wipe out any possible saving in operating costs this year, according to Dr. H. W. Riggs, chairman of the board.

The government has announced its intention of reducing its contribution to hospitals from seventy to forty-five cents per patient a day. It is estimated this will mean $75,000 less revenue for the General Hospital. The plan is included in the budget, which is still under debate in the Legislature.

The hospital's position was outlined to the civic finance committee by Dr. Riggs.

IT TAKES RAILWAYMEN TO SOLVE RAILWAY PROBLEMS

The statement issued by Mr. E. W. Beatty and Mr. S. J. Hungerford, executive heads of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railway systems, that they have agreed to pool competitive passenger service between Montreal and Toronto not only is to be commended for the spirit of co-operation which it reflects but also because it is an indication that practical railwaymen are setting about the solution of an intricate problem which only railwaymen can solve. Part of the joint announcement follows:

The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways have agreed in principle to pooling of competitive passenger services wherever possible. Detailed arrangements for making the pool effective, east and west, will take some time to complete, but in order to effect immediate economies the two companies have arranged for a partial pooling of all passenger service between Montreal, Toronto, and the pooling of all passenger service between Ottawa and Toronto. These consolidations will be effective on Sunday, April 2. An economy of well over $500,000 per year will result from these initial developments in the pooling arrangements. Under the new plan effective then, the fast afternoon train service between Montreal and Toronto will be consolidated.

The Times always has been of the opinion that if the operating officers of the two transcontinental railway systems could get together without any restriction they soon could solve most of their difficulties.

The statement issued by Messrs. Beatty and Hungerford further intimates that they intend to pool competing passenger services wherever possible. Presumably this may be taken to mean that the two railroad heads are working quietly on a broad comprehensive plan in order that the present services may conform more nearly to the requirements of traffic demands, now, of course, at a very low level. There is no suggestion that remedies applied to meet an abnormal condition will be permanent and eventually eliminate competition. The great mass of public opinion in Canada is strongly hostile to any form of railway monopoly.

A HOHENZOLLERN RESTORATION NOT AN ISSUE

Chancellor Hitler told the Reichstag to-day that the restoration of the German monarchy was a matter for future consideration which did not demand immediate attention.

There will be no disposition to contest this statement from the Nazi leader. Hitler is asking the Reichstag to give him and his cabinet full authority to run the country for four years as they may think desirable. The former Austrian artisan who dreamed dreams of political power years ago is in his glory; he is drinking copious drafts of the wine of victory. Is it likely that he will invite a Hohenzollern to remove, be it ever so gently, the cup from his lips? Hitler as Chancellor with a President who now is obviously amenable to "management" by the Nazi leader and his allies, and Hitler as Chancellor with a monarch who would probably re-proclaim divine alliance, would present a striking contrast in authority.

The republic for the time being may be undergoing a sort of eclipse; but it is not dead. The swastika and the old imperial flag may have taken the place of the republican emblem. But it is safe to say the majority of the people are unalterably opposed to the scrapping of the Constitution of Weimar. Any attempt to scrap it would almost certainly produce trouble of the gravest kind.

Hence it follows that the restoration of the monarchy is not an issue, because the republic is bound to live. Hitler's star will shine only as long as he chooses to live with the republic. It is one thing to ask for a four-year dictatorship and another to be top dog at the end of the period.

WHERE SUGAR TAX WILL HURT MOST

There are countless people in Canada, including many of the unemployed, who grow fruit in their gardens for preserving. No doubt a considerable proportion of them were almost kept alive during the winter by these supplies. Upon them the forty per cent tax on sugar will fall with devastating results. Many of them will be unable to put up any of this important, energizing food at all, which means that the country will have to provide them with sufficient sustenance to make up the loss.

The federal Minister of Finance estimates an income to the Dominion treasury of $20,000,000 from the sugar tax. That estimate will be at least as far out as most other budget speech revenue estimates have been shown to be. The public will buy less sugar; there will be less preserving of fruits by thrifty housewives, less consumption of this commodity by the average family directly, less consumption through innumerable other channels through which sugar flows to the consumer.

Hence, not only will the federal treasury receive less than the Minister anticipates, but the lowered vitality of those to whom sugar means so much and whose stock of the commodity will have to be reduced, will cost the country much more than even the total increment the Minister fondly, but mistakenly, expects. Sugar may not have much significance to Ministers of the Crown, but it is something of vital importance to the plain citizens. Even the consumption of all-day sucker candy by three-year-olds will suffer, and our army of taxpayers thus will receive a legion of new infantile recruits.

SPECULATION AND THE CANADIAN PEOPLE

A bill affecting lotteries was opposed by Prime Minister Bennett on the ground that it would encourage speculation among the Canadian people. This bill, which was talked out in the House, and therefore did not come to a vote, is not the legislation affecting sweepstakes for hospitals which recently was passed by the Senate. We may anticipate that Mr. Bennett will oppose the sweepstakes measure when it goes up to discussion.

His opposition, however, probably should be based upon something more substantial than his fear that sweepstakes will encourage speculation among the Canadian people, since that encouragement already exists under innumerable headings, particularly in the form of stock manipulation which has caused more losses to the general public in a few years than all the sweepstakes that could be organized in Canada would involve in half a century. A dollar in a sweepstakes is a negligible hazard in comparison with the gambling in the oceans of watered stock in which countless millions of public funds have been engulfed, and which does not seem to have shocked the susceptibilities of anybody in Parliament sufficiently to have it investigated.

THE WORK OF THE NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL

Within the past few years Canadian scientists have made contributions worth millions of dollars annually to the efficiency of production of Canadian industry, and have greatly strengthened the competitive position of many Canadian products. The credit for the individual discoveries which have been achieved belongs to the individual scientist or to the scientists who made the new product or discovered the new process, but the field of scientific work is most complex and it is essential that each scientist be made acquainted with similar or closely-allied experiments which are being conducted by other individuals in all parts of the country. Problems in physical chemistry require the co-operation of both physicists and chemists, and those in bio-chemistry, the co-operation of both biologists and chemists. To be fully productive the research work must be co-ordinated. The credit for the complex and difficult task of organizing this work in Canada, we are reminded in the March issue of the Royal Bank of Canada's survey of business and other conditions, is due to the efforts of the National Research Council, and particularly to Dr. H. M. Tory, the president of the council.

In the past, when science made comparatively few and sporadic contributions to the work of the practical world, there was a very different attitude toward trade secrets than that which is now developing. Of old, each manufacturing process was the product of a series of gradual improvements handed down through the generations from man to man. Skilled workmen could obtain results which were not understood even by themselves and certainly by no one outside the industry. Against this background the manufacturing process or the trade practice remained a mystery prized by the initiates. Yet art, gained from precedent and passed from man to man without being reduced to principles and co-ordinated into a background of general knowledge, does not constitute the type of nucleus from which new principles and practices are readily derived. To-day, as the Royal Bank's monthly news letter points out, when most chemical compounds can be quickly broken down into their elements by analytic chemists, when most manufacturing processes are described in detail in the text books, and when labor circulates from plant to plant with a freedom which frustrates most efforts to keep processes secret, a new attitude is developing with relation to the common knowledge of an industry.

To-day, the research worker is frequently given every possible assistance in the hope that his careful study may result in new developments of use to the industry as a whole. While the new attitude of industry toward common knowledge is by no means universal, yet many wholesale and retail stores now pool their most intimate statistics with the hope of gaining more important information as to turnover and costs. Independent units support co-operative research which proves beneficial to each individual organization, and a whole industry united to tell the public that "to save the surface is to save all." As co-operation is extended to nations, moreover, the follies of isolation will become more evident—and will be avoided in the future.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

GALLON FOR GALLON
 The Toronto Star

It may turn out, after all, that what Mr. Bennett meant by saying that he was in favor of reciprocity with the United States was that he is in favor of that country buying as many dollars worth of goods per annum from Canada as this country buys from that. He may but have been string his trade balance theory—gallon for gallon and pound for pound, no more and no less.

WHERE MEN ARE NEIGHBORS
 The Regina Leader-Post

Prairie folk are still great neighbors. This thought is suggested by a dispatch in The Leader-Post from Wawota, Sask. A farmer in that district had an accident recently, suffering a severe fracture of the leg. The neighbors discerned his woodpile was getting low, needed replenishing. The result was a "bee," and twenty loads of firewood piled high, wide and handsome in his yard. There have been hundreds, maybe thousands, of such incidents in the life of the rural west. Great hearts are born out on these spaces, born of the winds, the cold, the loneliness that still lingers, all the factors of prairie life. There is a great rejoicing in kindly deed; there is a vast amount of simple kindness and thoughtfulness. And yet some people are cruel enough to say that we are a pretty calloused humanity. There are no such terms in the vocabulary of "inter-prairie" relationships at any rate.

A THOUGHT

Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive the early and latter rain.—James v. 7. Patience is nobler motion than any deed.—Bartol.

Across The Bay

The debate moves to the left—Mr. Pearson penetrates the budget and the hide of the government—Mr. Uphill talks on Doukhobors and rustliotes—and Mr. King is deliciously frank.

By H. B. W.

THE BUDGET debate, in the course of its somewhat rambling peregrinations through a House which is already tired of it, moved sharply to the left on Wednesday. It moved to the left in the jargon of political economists. It was radical in tone and penetratingly, with some of Mr. Pearson's cold logic, relieved by the unquenchable wit of Mr. Uphill, and some charming moments of satire from Mr. King.

Mr. Pearson had the lion's share of the afternoon and used it to good purpose, as usual. Mr. Pearson, I suppose, would be called a Liberal of the left, or perhaps a radical of the right. In a word, he is for preserving the capitalist system, but for preserving it with a drastic and sharp overhaul, to prevent it collapsing altogether. His views and for his almost most evangelical zeal in proposing reforms, the House has the highest respect, except for a few members whom nature did not equip for serious cranial activity and few others who don't like to admit that all Mr. Pearson's financial and economic warnings of the past have come only too true.

PRETTY BAD

MR. PEARSON'S speech on the budget was almost unique in that it dealt almost entirely with the budget, and dealt with it rather too sharply to be comfortable. He has had plenty of experience with budgeting in business, where he has been successful, and has an uncanny facility with figures. Applying his businessman's training to this budget he had no hesitation in saying it was pretty bad, probably would run up another deficit of $5,000,000, and would add another governmental cost on other people, unable to bear them.

Mr. Pearson was unkind enough to recall that he had warned the government in its first days that it was going, how it was running deficits all the time and piling up debt, and he paused to hazard the suggestion that Mr. Sheehy had quit the finance portfolio because he couldn't get any support for real economy in those days.

This, by the way, came nearer the truth than many people realize. It is about time the public knew that if Mr. Sheehy had had his way we wouldn't be in this jam now. Mr. Sheehy's mistake was in not sticking to his resignation when he offered it early in his career as a protest against the government's expenditures. Having agreed to stay under pressure, he was made the goat later on.

Mr. Pearson sympathized with Mr. Jones in his financial legacy, but he couldn't see that Mr. Jones had done anything so wonderful as his friends imagined. Mr. Jones showed by frequent interjections that he didn't like Mr. Pearson's analysis and unpleasant figures in the least.

BIG DEBTS

FOR EXAMPLE, the gross debt of B.C. had grown from $102,738,000, when the government took office, to $184,000,000 last November, and would be $170,000,000 when the government was elected, an increase of roughly $67,000,000, and an extra interest burden of $6,000,000 per year. There was no use talking about net debts, said Mr. Pearson, as taxpayers had to provide for the gross amounts, and he was fair enough to attack the old government for doing so, as this government was doing now. The fact was that we simply couldn't go on piling up long-term borrowings which, with interest included, cost nearly three times as much to pay back as the amount they provided in the first place.

Debt charges, he said, must be cut, but if interest rates alone were to be reduced because price levels were low, in justice they should be raised when price levels increased. As for sinking funds, they were largely a joke, because every dollar of them had been borrowed. A sinking fund, he said, was a rather jolting to the average member, who has never realized it before. Indeed, it would be better to pass up sinking fund provision, said Mr. Pearson, than borrow the money at 6 per cent or more.

COMPARISONS

HIS ANALYSIS of Mr. Jones's economies were keen. It was all very well for Mr. Jones to say he had cut his departmental expenditures by $7,000,000, compared with the mad peak years of the boom. Actually all ordinary expenditures this year, $52,729,000, would be higher than in the last year, when they were $42,000,000. In the same way departmental expenditures had been cut only $4,000,000.

And how had the government effected its great and courageous economies? Simply by passing the load on to someone else—$77,000,000 taken from the municipalities in liquor profits and $182,000 in racing taxes; $1,126,000 from the school boards; $240,000 from mothers' pensions; $1,000,000 from road maintenance, which was carried out by unemployed on borrowed money; $400,000 by fighting forest fires on borrowed money; $330,000 from hospitals, already at their wit's end for funds.

BRAVE TOO LATE

MR. PEARSON made a trenchant defence of so-called "paternalism" and social services, asserting that they were not the cause of our difficulties at all; that they were merely some compensation to the victims of our own stupidity, for our inability to distribute wealth reasonably. Social services cost little more than our liquor profits, were not nearly as great as our annual deficits. Health insurance, if the government had the courage to adopt it, would save money, since the cost of sickness must be met and was being met now by a narrowing circle of taxpayers.

Altogether, said Mr. Pearson, speaking in his quick, nervous and tense fashion, the government had been courageous too late and now was displaying its valor entirely at other people's expense. The constant interruptions and rather silly titters from the government benches, chiefly from men who have no notion what the budget contains, showed that Mr. Pearson's speech had gone home.

Mr. Uphill followed with a cyclone of words. He didn't agree with Mr. Pearson that Mr. Jones lacked courage. Mr. Jones had courage in applying the pruning hook and shears, but the whole tree of our economic system was rotten and should be dug out by the roots. To adorn his metaphor, Mr. Uphill read from a huge illustrated pamphlet of fruit pruning chart an impressive list of diseases, including aphid, canker and scab, which were afflicting the economic tree. Nor was Mr. Uphill's plan to insert fertilizer at the roots by way of reduced interest rates any use, said Mr. Uphill, because the fact was that people had better recognize the fact now, achieve a peaceful solution of our problems or face a violent one later.

DOUKHOBORS

AS FOR the budget, Mr. Jones had the better for forget about balancing it for the feast was impossible. He turned his attention to many individual items in the estimates and when Mr. Speaker Dave ruled this out of order he readily agreed, and proceeded to discuss another item and still another with the bland Irish pleasantry that we receive only from Mr. Uphill. Mr. Speaker gave up in despair after a while and Mr. Uphill launched into a talk on the cost of imprisoning the Doukhobors.

One does not recollect that Mr. Uphill ever made a speech without mentioning the Doukhobors, without any reference to their curious habits of undress. In this case he related in racy fashion how Mr. Pooly had met the Doukhobors last year in their "Sunday suits," fallen in love with them (though Mr. Uphill, a ladies' man, could not see the attraction) and proceeded to put them on an island paradise in the Gulf of Georgia. There it cost $1 a day to keep each of them while a man and his wife and six children down in Fernie got no more in unemployment relief. And even the poor widow's pension was being investigated by cruel female visitors and policemen.

Getting back to the budget somehow, Mr. Uphill said it would force the municipalities into receivership and into the hands of the province, the province would be turned over to the federal government and the federal government to a dictator. And five years from now the Jones budget would be in the archives, a curiosity causing as much wonder as a giraffe in the legislature.

Mr. King of Columbia, who followed, merely wanted to show that people in the west pay as much taxes as metropolitan residents, but with the best intentions, he got into a long wrangle with Mr. Speaker as to whether he could say what he wanted to say at this point or not. After a comical exchange across the floor, Mr. Speaker finally permitted him to proceed, and then the Conservatives discovered that Mr. King had wanted to compliment them all the time.

He wanted to say he favored Mr. Hincliffe's school act as it helped the rural districts in school grants, and that, said Mr. King with a frankness which was like a fresh breeze from his mountains, was why he voted for it. If he hadn't, his people would have met him with a gun. That same consideration probably explains why Mr. Patten had a small band of supporters in opposing the Hincliffe school act, but none of the others spoke as frank and as innocent in this game as Mr. King.

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES,

 From The Times Files

The boys from Nanaimo who came down to play Regumall at association football on Saturday, left no doubt of their intentions to return home victorious when they lined up at the Oak Bay Park on Saturday afternoon. From the jump they made it evident that they were out to win, and did to the final score of 4 to 2.

The roadhouses outside of the city limits are soon to be deprived of the privilege which they at present possess, and the first steps towards the enforcement of stringent measures was made on Saturday at a regular meeting of the South Saanich municipal council, when a by-law to better regulate the sale of liquor within the limits of the municipality was introduced.

The Pacific Coast steamer Umatilla arrived at the outer wharf this morning at 11 o'clock, one day late. The Umatilla left San Francisco at 11 o'clock Friday morning, and soon after leaving the Golden Gate met strong northerly winds which retarded her progress up the coast.

HOSPITAL ASKS DOCTORS' AID

Duncan Indigents to be Given Home Treatment; Budget Cripples Hospital

Profits From Vancouver Charity Distribution Rejected

Special to The Times

Duncan, March 23.—The directors of Duncan Hospital met at the hospital on Monday, Mrs. A. Day being well-represented by the King's Daughters. The appointment of Miss MacArthur as matron was confirmed, Miss MacArthur being introduced by Mr. Neil.

The B.C. Hospital Association reported that a delegation had been sent to Victoria to interview the government regarding the cut in hospital grants and had been informed that the decision could not be reconsidered. This will mean that the hospital will lose from $2,500 to $3,000 a year in revenue. The president will appoint a committee to meet the doctors and health nurses to see if, by co-operation, the number of indigent patients admitted to the hospital can be reduced and wherever possible arrangements made for home treatment.

Tenders for the new case room were received on Monday, as an error had been made in the accepted tender of C. A. Johnson. The board re-let the contract to the next lowest tender, E. W. Lee, whose price was $667.

The electric wiring system of the hospital will be put into safe condition by J. Dick, the cost being $221. A reduction in hospital charges will be effected, the system was reported in very bad condition, heavily overloaded and unsafe.

The accommodation for Indians and Doukhobors being unsatisfactory, the house and finance committee will go into the matter and see if they can finance changes under consideration.

SHANE REJECTED
 The B.C. Hospital Association sent a cheque for $29.45, as a share of the proceeds of the Charity Relief Service distribution. It was felt by the board that as they had decided to take no stand in the matter of sweepstakes, and this, in their opinion, was to all intents and purposes a sweepstakes they should not accept the cheque. The secretary was then instructed to notify the association to that effect and return the cheque.

Mrs. Day reported that the King's Daughters would donate much of the proceeds of their flower show towards the mortgage redemption fund. The financial report showed revenue of $4,033.65, expenditure including depreciation $4,037.75, cash receipts $3,965.60. The per capita cost had been $2.43 for 1,500 days treatment.

COMMUNITY BRIDGE
 The community bridge was held on Tuesday evening in aid of the hospital, with Mrs. O. T. Smythe as convener. There were seventy-five tables being in play at different houses, hostesses being Mrs. H. F. Frevon, Mrs. E. P. Dunne, Mrs. H. W. Mackenzie, Miss May Tombs, Mrs. W. R. Russell, Mrs. F. Hassell, Mrs. John Fox, Mrs. S. H. Kirkland, Mrs. W. Mott, Mrs. W. New, Mrs. R. Nugent and Miss M. E. Wilson.

At the Nurses' Home Mrs. R. K. Cairns presided, eight tables, assisted by Mrs. Smythe, Mrs. R. A. Thorpe and Mrs. E. Stock. After play there Miss N. MacEwan gave several vocal solos, accompanied by B. Ryall. Mr. Ryan also gave piano selections.

Mrs. E. S. Lomas presided at the Lake Cowichan and Mrs. T. P. Barry at Cobble Hill. The prize winners were: Contract, Mrs. A. Mann and E. Bailey; auction, Miss K. Robertson, Mrs. C. C. Wright and W. Bomford of Cobble Hill.

"If I had voted against that bill," commented Mr. King, "the people of my constituency would have put a gun to me."

Mr. King claimed partisanship was being evidence in many ways in his district, and voiced a plea for red work, which, he said, was badly needed. He urged action to find a solution of the unemployment problem and feared for the consequences if a waiting, drifting policy were followed. Turning to the possibilities of inflation, Mr. King remarked that he would rather have some dollars worth fifty cents than no dollars worth a hundred.

UPHILL REGRETS JONES PRUNING

Loss of Purchasing Power
Deplored by Labor Member of Legislature

Relief paid to unemployed was sharply contrasted with the cost of keeping incarcerated Doukhobors and their children by Thomas Uphill, labor, Fernie, during a speech marked by his usual vigorous championship of labor in the Legislature yesterday.

Mr. Uphill saw little merit in the budget and particularly scored its tendency to reduce purchasing power. "What is the use of the pruning hook?" Mr. Uphill asked. "If the budget is doing that, if I were on the bread-line I would get as near to heaven as I could, while on earth, and come to Victoria to die."

"It is affected with all those diseases," he said, "and the only thing to do is to dig it up by the roots."

"FOLLOW THE BIRDS"
Regarding transient unemployed, Mr. Uphill attacked any policy which prevented Canadians traveling in their own country as they chose.

"Victoria has advertised, 'Follow the Birds to Victoria,'" commented the speaker. "It cannot be if the birds are doing that. If I were on the bread-line I would get as near to heaven as I could, while on earth, and come to Victoria to die."

"If we don't do something and do it quickly," he proceeded, "a change will be brought about and by violent means, which would not be in the best interest of the country."

The under-dog was being cut and cut, Mr. Uphill claimed. They were told there was plenty in the world and it was obvious some were getting more than their share. Capitalists and corporate interests were demanding more and more and until that condition was corrected all legislation passed in that House would be of no avail.

Mr. Uphill deplored the absence of the $5,000 grant for the Salarium, to which he paid a glowing tribute, and was informed by Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, that the $5,000 given last year was a building grant.

Mr. Uphill replied that if a sum of $4,000 could be granted to weed out foul broods of bees, surely an institution like the Salarium could receive a grant.

He sharply contrasted the cost to the province of the Doukhobors, "with whom the Attorney-General fell in love and sent to a paradise on Pler Island," and the relief fund to unemployed.

"Fifty-seven cents a day is paid for a Doukhobor child and $2.50 a month is allowed for a child in my constituency," he answered.

Mr. Uphill deplored the lack of action on unemployment and state health insurance. Reductions in old-age pensions, hospital grants, municipal grants were outlined. The last vestige of democracy was being destroyed and a dictatorship established when conditions were forced where a commissioner had to take over a municipality.

Private ownership must give way to public ownership, he concluded, and until labor got the full products of its labor, he would find the problem of unemployment.

He criticized the present conditions and the general uncertainty of life in Russia, where the secret police provided a great menace to personal liberty.

Mr. Holland declared there was an apathy towards the second five year plan. Incentive to work hard was lacking, since exceptional endeavor might prompt the authorities to think a person was striving for personal gain.

The speaker declared the Russian transportation system was woefully inadequate. Justice, he said, depended upon the political views of an accused person. If a Communist, he would be comparatively safe, he added.

"Communism is not a state of happiness or of equality, he continued. It is subjection by fear. There is no such thing as equality. The peasant has the poor shoes and little clothing, but the politician has the imported automobiles, scores of which may be seen in Moscow."

Following his main lecture, Mr. Holland answered a series of questions from persons in the audience. The chairman was W. O. Stone, president of the District Council of the Canadian Legion.

On the 31st of May he will not, by reason of such lapse, be put in the position of risking the loss of all right title or interest in his mining property, as is the condition under the present Mineral Act. He may take out a special free miner's certificate any time during the period of six months after May 31, which special certificate will vest him in title.

In other words, he is given six months' grace, as now is the case, with this important additional protection—that during this period he is fully protected, providing he takes out a special certificate and pays the penalty attending the obtaining of that certificate.

No one can locate his ground, no one can take any mineral values from his mineral claim, no one can in any way enter upon his mining property during the period of six months after May 31, which special certificate will vest him in title.

A call to all those who have seed potatoes to spare has been issued by Sunshine Inn. Many people last year benefited from the distribution of seed potatoes, but this year there are none to spare.

AIR CONCERT FROM MOSCOW

Russia and North American
Continued To Be Linked by Radio Saturday

New York, March 22.—Russia, the last great country to be heard from, will be linked with the North American continent in a specially arranged programme for the first time Saturday from 4.15 to 5 p.m. E.S.T. (1.15 to 2.15 Victoria time). The programme, arranged by the Hearst Radio Service, will be carried over the Columbia network from coast to coast.

The broadcast will be in the nature of a test for a later series of programmes presenting leaders in the Soviet, prominent Americans visiting in the U.S.S.R., and distinguished Russian singers and musical organizations. The initial programme, which will be announced by Linton Wells, staff correspondent of Universal Service and the Hearst newspapers in Moscow, will be composed entirely of music.

The Platinitsky Chorus will sing five folk songs; Irma Yousimov will present songs of the various nationalities of the Soviet Union; the State Symphony Orchestra of Moscow will perform Tchaikovsky's fantasia, "Francesco di Rimini." Denshinskaya, prima donna of the Moscow Grand Opera, will sing an aria with orchestra and two numbers with piano, all by Tchaikovsky, and the Soviet music chorus will give a number never before heard in this country. Davidson's "Perturbed Street." The programme will conclude with the Turkmenian suite by Shakhmatov with the combined choruses and orchestra.

TRADE UNION STATION
The programme is to be transmitted on 100 meters directly from the powerful Moscow trade union station RW-40 and will be picked up in New York and rebroadcast over the network's regular facilities. It will represent a record pickup for rebroadcasting purposes, as past programmes from European countries have been transmitted by telephone line to Berlin or London and shortwaved from one or these points.

Improvements effected in the Moscow station enabled it to be heard on this continent for the first time several weeks ago, when an attempt was made to broadcast the playing of the bells of the Kremlin in Moscow. Tests have been proceeding regularly since then. Although atmospheric disturbances over the Atlantic interfered with transmission to-day, engineers of the Columbia Broadcasting System were of the opinion that these will be cleared up by Saturday, permitting a good reproduction of the programme. Tests have brought in programmes of unusually good quality.

Wheat Pushed Up By Export Demand

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, March 23.—Export demand estimated at 1,000,000 bushels and good support from outside markets lifted values on the Grain Exchange to-day. Future prices ranged 1/2 to 1 cent higher.

Selling came into the market fairly freely at the high points but traders were able to absorb the offerings without difficulty. Strength in outside markets tended toward short covering and the support remained fairly firm.

throughout the session, boosting prices about 1 1/2 cents at one period.

Overnight export business of about 600,000 bushels for Liverpool was reported and foreign sales during the session put the figure near the 1,000,000-bushel mark.

Liverpool made gains of 1/2 to 3/4 cent and with movement of Argentine wheat figured at 4,250,000 bushels for this week. Buenos Aires showed a gain of 1/2 cent at noon.

Demand for cash grain remained negligible and futures trading in coarse grains were dull.

Will Girl Who Has Always Had Everything Repent Of Marriage for Love Alone? — Great Soul Who Finds Cause for Rejoicing Even in Wife's Nagging

DEAR MISS DIX—I am deeply in love with a girl who returns my affection. I would like very much to marry her, but am not in a position to give her nearly as much as she has been accustomed to having with her family. She claims that this would not matter to her, but I am wondering if she could stand the grief, or if she would repent her sacrifice and hate me for it.

S. O.K.

Answer: You pay the girl a very poor compliment by thinking that her love for you may not be as strong as her love of luxury, and that it would not stand the strain of a lower scale of living than that to which she has been accustomed.

Why, even a piece of pink chignon has an unbelievable amount of wear in it, and because a girl has been brought up in the de luxe manner is no sign whatever that she lacks the sturdiness and character and grit to meet real life and its responsibilities. There are just as many rich girls with hearts and brains as there are poor girls. There are just as many Juniors League who are ready to roll up their sleeves and go to work for the men they love, and who would stand by them through poverty and struggle and stress—and count it a joy instead of a sacrifice, as there are shop girls. No particular rank in society has a monopoly on real womanhood.

Of course, it is easy to understand how a poor boy hesitates to marry a rich girl because he can't give her all the things to which she has been used, but it isn't the material things that a husband gives his wife that make her happy. It is the things that money doesn't buy that she craves. Love and understanding and tenderness. If he gives her these, she is rich. Lacking them, she is poor. Some of the loneliest women in the world live in palaces that husbands have given them, but in which they do not bear them company. Many a wife would exchange her string of matched pearls for one indication that her husband still cared for her.

Money doesn't buy happiness in marriage. Many a young couple who marry on a shoestring and who go to live in a little two-by-four flat or a cheap cottage with a few sticks of furniture bought on the installment plan have their happiest days when they are working shoulder to shoulder and planning together.

For they are united as no rich couple can be who are torn apart by the very conditions of their lives, when the man must give most of his time and thoughts and interest to the big problems of business that press upon him, and when the woman is wallowed up by social engagements and when both are subjected to temptations from which the poor are saved by the mere fact that they are not worth the attentions of the gold-digger and the gigolo.

You are afraid to ask this girl to marry you because you think that she will be dissatisfied because she cannot have Paris finery and a fine car and spend her days going to parties. Has it ever occurred to you, son, that the things that have the greatest glamour about them are the things we have never had, and that there is a certain satiety about the things we have had? The girl who has always had all the pretty frocks she wants is not so keen about clothes as the girl who has never had any. The girl who has been in society ever since she could walk is sick and tired of gauding about. It is the girl who is starved for amusement who goes mad over parties and night clubs.

Time and again I have seen this proved. I have seen a rich girl marry a poor man and settle down into doing her own housework and making her own frocks and pushing her own baby carriage and being the most thrifty and economical of wives, and having the time of her life at it. And I have seen poor girls marry men on small salaries, but that was so much more than they ever had before that they thought it wealth and rushed into reckless extravagance. I have seen poor girls literally come out of the kitchen when they got married and never cook another meal or do anything to make a comfortable home.

So you never can tell. The rich girl is just as likely to make a happy and contented poor man's wife as the poor girl. So give her a chance. She will, if she loves you.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have lived with a nagging wife for fourteen years. While I am at home she follows me about with a constant bombardment of advice, suggestions and complaints, which makes me as if I was being tapped on the back of the head every few seconds with a hammer. This is very annoying to me, but I know that it enables her to boast to her friends about how helpful she is to her husband and family. Moreover, I must admit that I have received some benefit from her nagging. Whenever I escape the sound of her voice my spirits rise as if a great load had been lifted from them, and the men and women I meet seem wonderfully interesting and fascinating, because I am free from the fear that they will bombard me with advice and complaints. So I owe to my wife this spiritual uplift, and the glamour she throws over other ladies because of the situation at home.

Sometimes I fear the ill effects of this constant nagging on our children, but I am consoled by knowing that because of what they endure now they will be very careful in avoiding marrying a nagger.

Answer—I trust that my correspondent will be a shining example to other henpecked husbands, and that those who suffer under the pin pricks of nagging wives will gain strength and comfort from his philosophy even if they are not able to emulate it.

But few men, I fear, can rise to the heights attained by this great soul. The only individual capable of occupying that pinnacle with him is the small boy who claimed that he enjoyed the toothache because it felt so good when it quit hurting.

But out of evil good does come, and there is no doubt that the nagged man is scourged along the way he should go. He may not enjoy being reminded every time he comes into the house about fixing the leak in the bathroom faucet or mending the broken chair, but at last he gets out his tools and mends them. He may rebel at being put through the third degree and having to tell every solitary thing that has happened at the office, but he dares not do any side-stepping.

And moreover one of our leading medical authorities declares that a nagging wife is the greatest aid to longevity in a man because it is her persistent and never-ending prodding him about getting his feet wet and mauling up his throat and going to see the doctor that makes him take care of his health and live longer. Or perhaps life only seems longer to the husband of the nagger.

But, anyway, it is heartening to know that the nagger has her use.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a single girl and live with my married sister. She worships her husband and absolutely trusts him, but he is not only unfaithful to her, but even tries to make love to me. My inclination is to leave and go somewhere else to live, but how can I do so without causing trouble?

LOU.

Answer—You will cause a great deal more trouble if you stay. It will hurt your sister far worse to find out that her husband is attempting to philander with him than for you to leave her. Go at once.

Horoscope

FRIDAY, MARCH 24, 1933

Conflicting planetary influences are active to-day, according to astrology. It is a day to plan activities carefully and to proceed cautiously. There is a fortunate sign for shopkeepers who should find selling more profitable than usual. Merchants and manufacturers in certain lines of industry may work under the good of luck.

Lawyers continue under a planetary government that seems to preclude much litigation and many suits growing out of business readjustments and changed commercial policies. Workers have the promise of growing demand for their brains and hands. The summer is to develop many important enterprises. It is forecast.

Farmers are well directed to-day by the stars, which prearrange organized movements for prosperity that is stable.

This should be a lucky day for sign-makers on business for or for entering in contracts that promise fair profits.

Women appear to be ignored, more than in the past, at this critical time in United States history, but the stars declare that they are to find in public service after the spring has passed.

This is a time of preparation among girls and women who should shop as well as study. Interest in home-making will be as strong as ever, if the stars are well read.

Wives and daughters are to find much comfort for wise counsel and comfort from under the government of the stars, which will tell the heads of families.

The summer is to bring many sensational crimes that will arouse public resentment to a point that assures sweeping reforms, if it is prophesied.

While there may be many robberies and crimes involving greed within the next few months, the stars promise returning prosperity and general optimism in all parts of the United States.

Persons whose birthday it is have the anxiety of a year of average prosperity. Wills may benefit a certain number. Prudence and thrift are recommended.

Children born on this day probably will be extremely intelligent and individual. Subjects of this sign are usually capable of determined leadership. Girls may be first rate executives.

William Morris English poet, artist and socialist, was born on this day, 1874.

Canned Blood Now For Transfusions

New York, March 23.—The successful use in Russia of canned human blood for transfusion purposes was related to-day by Dr. Allen Hirsch of New York, on his arrival here on the liner Europa after spending a year in Russia.

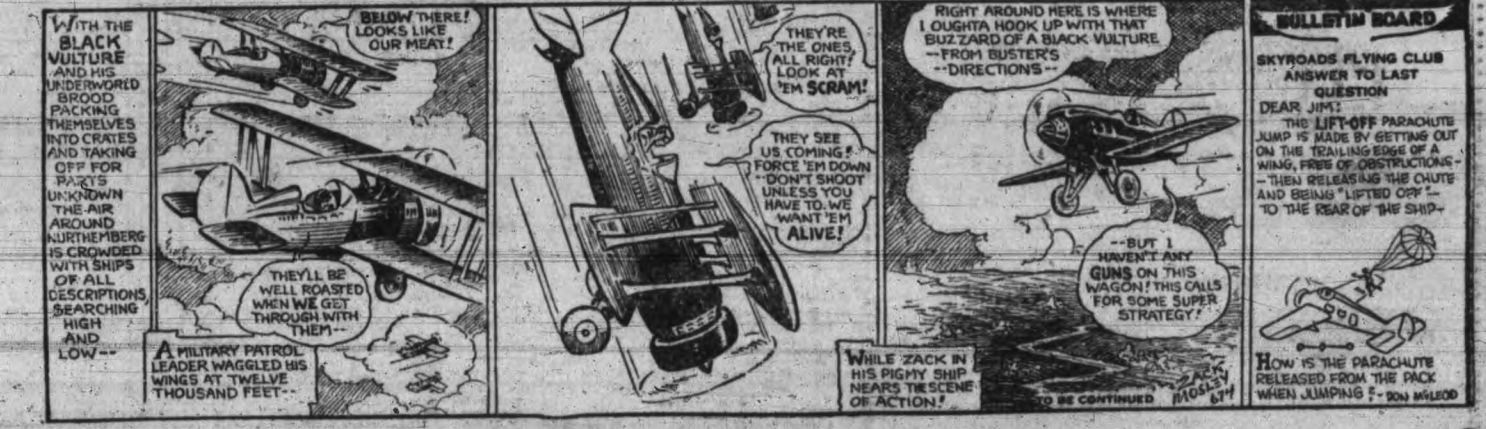

"You cannot use the blood of a person who has died of disease," Dr. Hirsch said. "But when a person has been killed, the blood can be used again with beneficial results."

Dr. Hirsch said blood had been drained from a man killed in Moscow and sealed in a can. Twenty days later, he said, it was used successfully for a transfusion.

The Man Hunters

"You poor kid, you," Rose hugged her. "Let me send out that beige suit with the fox collar I was telling you about. It's just your size and the style will be perfect for you. That will save your shopping and I can have it charged. You certainly can't," finished Rose robustly, "be married in any of your old things."

Susan agreed without enthusiasm. It was kind of Rose to go to so much bother for her. Of course she should look well for the ceremony. It would be nice if she could feel excited and happy about it as brides were supposed to feel but since she couldn't she must at least try to look the part.

The suit was delivered the following afternoon and with it came pumps of aniseed and stockings of sheerest silk. Rose had even chosen a tiny turban to complete the ensemble. It was fashioned of myriad small velvet flowers in pale fawn shades.

"Try them on, lovey," Mrs. Milton commanded. Susan obeyed. Ladies as she was she could not help a feeling of satisfaction at the effect produced by the new outfit. She looked to herself, slim, straight and remotely elegant as the models sketched on the pages of Vogue.

"You surely are a picture," Mrs. Milton told her, wiping away a sentimental tear. "When I was a girl we thought we weren't married right unless we wore white satin and a long veil, but I declare, no one could mistake you for anything but a bride this minute. Listen, dear, there's the door-bell," she went on rapidly. "My hair's a sight so you go. There's a good child."

Susan flung open the door, prepared to speed some luckless vendor of books on his way. Could she be dreaming? There before her stood Bob Dunbar.

"May I come in for a moment?" he asked coolly. "But I see you were going out. Perhaps I can walk along with you."

"I wasn't going out," answered Susan, confused. "I just tried these things on." She bit her lip, annoyed at having made this naive admission.

"All the better then because I want to talk to you for a bit," the young man repeated.

Susan led him into the comfortable Milton living-room. She put up a hand to remove the little hat but Bob stopped her.

"Please don't take it off," he begged. "It suits you. Do you know you look marvelous in that turnout?"

"Thank you," said Susan gravely. She was feasting her eyes on the precious outline of his lean face, crested with unruly fair hair.

"Sit down, won't you?"

"I do much better standing," said Bob. "I've had the sense of a time finding you. Why did you stage an escape scene that night at the ball? You didn't even leave a Cinderella slipper."

"There was nothing else to do," said Susan gravely.

The young man set his jaw. "I don't see that," he muttered. "I had only just found you. There wasn't any point in running off like that."

Susan twisted her hands and tried to avoid his eyes. "You mustn't talk that way," she said rapidly. "I can't let you. It's not right."

His laugh rang out. "Who says it isn't right?"

"I do."

"Look here, my girl!" With a single long stride he was at her side. He dropped to one knee, bringing his face on a level with Susan's. "We've got to cut out this nonsense. We're wasting time. I thought we settled all this that night."

"Nothing was settled," Susan said, trembling at his nearness. She could catch the scent of expensive tobacco and shaving soap and Russian leather. His blue eyes, dancing wickedly, were dangerously close to hers.

"I thought you were bright," he mocked her. "I thought you knew what I was talking about." His voice lowered, softened. Into it crept the lover's note that Susan had heard once before.

"My girl," he muttered, covering her clasped hands with one of his own "My own darling."

Susan's heart melted to him utterly but she sat, rigid and apparently composed.

"Sweetheart, look at me!" Bob commanded.

Unwillingly she turned her eyes to his. "You mustn't," she warned him. "I've no right to listen. You're forgotten."

"Forgotten what?"

The flush ran over her pale skin clear down to the point where the creamy throat was swallowed up in the swirls of pale fur.

"This—" Susan indicated her outfit.

Healthy and Happy with FRY'S Cocoa

Give your breadwinner a lunch kit treat tomorrow—a vacuum bottle of piping hot Fry's Cocoa. Men like Fry's for lunch because of its pleasing, chocolaty flavour, and also because it is a sustaining food. Unlike some other drinks which change in taste when kept in a bottle even for a short while, cocoa has the same enticing flavour when he drinks it at noon as when you made it in your kitchen.

The nourishing food value of Fry's Cocoa provides quick warmth and strength in wintertime.

To Make One Cup of Cocoa with Fry's
Mix one half to a teaspoonful of Fry's Cocoa with sugar to taste. Add three teaspoonfuls of cold milk and mix into a smooth paste. Pour on boiling water or water and milk brought to the boil. Stir briskly while pouring.

LONGER RACING BILL FAVORED

Victoria and Vancouver to Have Horses for an Extra Week

A bill to extend horse racing at the Willows Park, Victoria, and Hastings Park, Vancouver, to two weeks instead of one, passed second reading in the British Columbia Legislature yesterday with some opposition. The object of the bill which is an amendment to the Horseracing Regulation Act, is to compensate the Victoria and Vancouver Agricultural Associations for the loss of their grants this year, Victoria, by arrangement, may have two weeks racing at the annual exhibition at the Willows.

J. W. Berry, Conservative Delta, who sponsored the bill, said it would strengthen the financial position of the agricultural associations, which were doing good work. The profits would go entirely to the people as the Dominion Government got a proportion, the province got its part-mutual profits and other proceeds went to the agricultural associations.

R. L. Matland, K.C., thought the proper place to hold horseracing was at exhibitions, but thought instead of extending the season, the time on other tracks could have been curtailed. He opposed it on the grounds it extended the season. A. M. Manson, K.C., took a similar view, and doubted the wisdom of financing exhibitions by gambling. T. D. Pattullo also thought the logical course was to give the exhibitions more racing and the other courses less. Dr. Wrench opposed the bill. George S. Pearson said he thought gambling was economically unsound, but since people would bet on something, he supported the bill. A. Wells Gray and Hon. W. A. McKenzie supported the bill.

PUSIE TO ENTER TORONTO SWIM

Star Player in Western League Hockey Will Seek Honors in New Field

Toronto, March 23.—Alexandrine Gibb, in a copyrighted story in The Toronto Star's sporting columns to-day, says Gene Pusie, of Quebec, who plays professional hockey in the Western Canada League, will enter the Canadian National Exhibition marathon swim.

Pusie, leading scorer in the Western Canada League, has been purchased by New York Rangers from Vancouver Maroons for service next winter. He had a little previous professional experience with Montreal Canadiens and Maroons.

Pusie is a colorful player, with enough idiosyncrasies to help him turn the trick. He goes on the ice with two or three days' beard on his chin and stops attacking players by leaping in the air, before he starts his rush at them. He announced his intention of entering the marathon swim in a letter.

MIXED FOURSMEN
A mixed foursome competition will be held at the Colwood Golf Club next Sunday. Players are asked to choose their partners and arrange starting times.
